

International Conference on Comparative Cognition
CONFERENCE ON COMPARATIVE COGNITION
Conference Presentation Information PRESENTATIONS
Modified Instructions for 2021 Virtual Conference

Graduate students, post-docs, and faculty are welcome to give 5 minute talks. A 5-min talk should be a short incisive spoken poster. Graduate students, post-docs, and faculty are welcome to present a 2-min talk (CO3 2021). Post-docs and faculty are welcome to give 10 minute. A 10-min talk should be a crisp standard conference talk. Faculty may request an extended presentation (20 min, with 5 min discussion). These presentations are expected to integrate several years of research, much of it published. To be considered for an extended talk, a detailed (300-400 word abstract) must be submitted as well as the standard short abstract. The same researcher may not give an extended talk more often than once every three years. There will be a limit of approximately six 20-min talks. If more acceptable extended presentation submissions are received than can be accommodated, they will be selected based on number of years since the presenter's last 20 minute talk and order of submission. Those whose extended talk submission cannot be accommodated will be assigned a 10 minute talk.

PRERECORDED PRESENTATIONS: For prerecorded talks, you may use any software which captures both audio narration and video of your slides. Save or convert the recording of your talk into mp4 format. More details will be given with notification that your abstract was accepted.

Please rename the file(s) you submit with a name that begins with the last name of the presenting author concatenated with the name of the session in which you are presenting your talk (e.g., BrownSpatialCognition.ppt)

Please be mindful of colourblind participants - make graphs, text and legends matched for shape/texture in addition to colour (e.g., use black/grey/textures to distinguish between bars on a graph).
International Conference on Comparative Cognition.

The Proceedings of the conference are posted on the CCS web site and include Abstracts of all presentations.
